

From the Department of Workforce Services

Careers.utah.gov

by Tara Connolly

Deciding what you want to do with your life can be overwhelming at any age. This decision just got a little bit easier with the new online career planning resource, Careers.utah.gov. This website was created in partnership between the Utah Department of Workforce Services, Utah System of Higher Education, Utah State Office of Education and Utah State Office of Rehabilitation. Prior to this, an individual would need to go to several sites to conduct a thorough career search. Now, everything is available in one spot to help simplify your career planning.

The many possibilities of career planning are open to you on this website. You can take assessment tests to determine what your skills and aptitudes are, and view live data on what skills Utah employers are looking for, in certain occupations. Also available are searches for career and technical training, college and university degrees and how to fund your education. If you already know what job you want, you can find the wage and job trend information on your chosen occupation, search for, and even apply for open jobs!

Whether you're investigating careers, exploring education and training, or looking for a job, this website has tools and information to help you make informed decisions. If you are a job seeker, a student, a teacher, a parent or anyone interested in planning a career, Careers.utah.gov is the one website for you.